COLUMBIA FOOTBALL MUST KEEP CLEAN

College Paper Denies 'Varsity Players Are Shifting Courses.

Prompt denial was made at Columbia yesterday that any members of the 1915 'varsity football team who had planned to enter departments of had planned to enter departments of the university where they would not be eligible to play football were being coerced into remaining in the college. "The Columbia Spectator" took up the cudgels and declared editorially that any suggestion that coercion was being used on the players would bring discredit on the game and would tend to force conditions down to the depths reached in 1905. This, in part, is "The Spectator's" Basketball Practice

Does This Get By?

We have no desire to offer any alibi or launch any excuses for our prunecolored exhibition of golf pool at Jack Doyle's yesterday, where we required 117 strokes to qualify.

But we feel that the following explanation is due-viz., that at the first hole we were struck so savagely on the bean by a cue wielded by Bill Hanna, who took a full swing, that we were dazed and discomfited until the seventeenth hole had been reached.

In addition to this, our caddie lost five balls after perfect drives do the captain, middle of the course, we had six cuppy lies and old Al Hedley laid us eleven winner.
